MONTRÉAL

A blurred high-speed train, likely a Shinkansen, is captured in motion, passing through a modern urban station. The train's white body and blue accents are streaked across the frame. In the foreground, a white, modular bench with wooden slats sits on a paved plaza. Three young cherry blossom trees with pink flowers are planted in the plaza. A large, bold red slash mark is superimposed over the image, running diagonally from the top right to the bottom left. The text "Why Montréal?" is written in a large, bold, red font across the center of the image.

A photograph of an aerialist performing a handstand on a rope. The performer is wearing a black leotard and a patterned skirt. The background shows a large crowd of people sitting on bleachers in front of a large, modern building with a curved roof. The scene is illuminated by warm, golden lights, suggesting an evening event. Two large red diagonal slashes are positioned on either side of the text.
